Kingston Technology Systems

KTS is an expert provider of project management, estimating, scheduling, construction management services, systems and software solutions.

KTS can provide a complete project controls service for capital projects, from bankable feasibility estimates and project planning, through to lump sum construction estimates and schedules. This can include the supply of propriety software or the development of custom software systems to suit your project.

KTS supports your company's services and systems allowing you to concentrate your efforts in your other primary areas of expertise.

KTS staff have decades of experience in fields covering mining construction, feasibility studies, estimating, project management, software development, and software systems integration.

KTS core staff and management have worked in several countries, including Australia, Africa, The Pacific, Indonesia, Malaysia and the United Kingdom, providing expert engineering services specific to the target geographical region and industry.
